My name is Tiffany Nathan and I am a second-year student at Dutchess Community College. My major is Human Services. I interned at the Harriet Tubman Academic Skills Center in Poughkeepsie during the last Spring semester. Unfortunately the internship was cut short due to the Covid 19 virus. I am thrilled to return as the Social Emotional Wellness Coordinator this year. I look forward to forming trusting, supportive relationships with all the students and I am more than honored to be someone they can count on, both as a friend, and as a teacher.

Working with young children is so rewarding because they force us to remember that we were all once their age and also to step back and develop even more patience and listening skills. Children can teach you so much, and it is these very lessons that will enable me to pursue my career of becoming a marriage and family therapist in the near future.

I love to read and write and am always interested in learning new activities. I also enjoy playing with animals and spending time with family and loved ones.
